DOHaD Society Associated Groups

Preamble
The International Society for Developmental Origins of Health and Disease (DOHaD) is a learned Society that aims to develop, encourage and support research into the early origins of health and disease. In doing so the Society’s aims include the co-ordination of a research strategy in different countries, to foster regular meetings and, especially, to promote the interchange of ideas, staff and expertise between laboratories and research groups across the world. In this regard, the Society encourages and supports the formation of Associated Groups, where individuals that share a language, a geographical region, or a coordinated strategic mission, can come together and form either CHAPTERS or AFFILIATE groups (see below). These groups are highly regarded by the Society, as they foster research interests in DOHaD internationally, support Society membership, and promote international research collegiality. The International Society will support its Associated Groups to the best of its ability and resources, wherever it is necessary and appropriate.

Why should your group become associated with the International DOHaD Society?

How to become an International DOHaD Society-associated group

All groups wishing to be associated officially with the International DOHaD Society must complete an application template (see below).

The aims of any associated group must coincide closely with the International DOHaD Society. The International Society however recognizes that each group will have its own specific aims that target their own region or membership. Each group must be made up of some form of executive committee and must outline the overarching aims of the proposed group in terms of research, teaching and communication. Governance will be through the local group and will not managed by the International Society.

Groups may choose one of two possible DOHaD Society associations based on their needs and the financial management of their membership subscriptions:

a. DOHaD Society CHAPTERS
DOHaD Society CHAPTERS agree to maintain at least 60% of their membership as International Society members. DOHaD Society CHAPTERS have a “top down” approach in subscription management where the International DOHaD Society central administration will manage all subscription finances on behalf of the CHAPTER. Upon Council approval of a CHAPTER application, this Chapter will appear on the International Society website as an option for members to join. New members subscribing to the International Society may then choose to become a member of this new CHAPTER. Half of the subscription fees collected from members that choose to align with a specific CHAPTER will channel back to that CHAPTER once per year. Financial agreements will be formalized in the application approval process with the DOHaD Central administration. DOHaD Society CHAPTER members will benefit from the full range of benefits available to other DOHaD Society members, including Journal subscription, newsletters and preferential registration rates for World Congresses.

b. DOHaD Society REGIONAL AFFILIATES
DOHaD Society AFFILIATE group have a “bottom up” approach in subscription fee management where the AFFILIATE executive will manage all subscription finances. Upon Council approval of an AFFILIATE application, all AFFILIATE members will automatically become International Society members. The AFFILIATE Society will manage all subscription finances and will pay the International Society a minimum of £10 per member and £2 per student member once per financial year. DOHaD Society AFFILIATE members will benefit from the full range of benefits available to other DOHaD Society members, including Journal subscription, newsletters and preferential registration rates for World Congresses.
